Seniors Who Care Presents "Shakespeare in the Garden"

Thursday, February 24th at 1 PM on Zoom

The beauty of flowers has inspired civilization to attribute symbolic and mystic meanings to each blossom. Through the ages, beautiful and poetical thoughts have been conveyed by the presentation of a single blossom and whole messages were communicated by bouquets in which each chosen flower offered a significant idea. In his plays and poetry, Shakespeare was a master at the use of symbolism through his choice of plants and flowers. Come hear about this writer's genius, including "And there's Pansies, that's for thoughts." (Hamlet)

Our guest speaker is Cathie Gifford, Albany County Master Gardener Volunteer. Cathie has been a Master Gardener since 1997 and she and her husband created a Shaker-style culinary herb garden at the Cornell Cooperative Extension garden in Voorheesville.

A Zoom invitation will be sent out on Wednesday, February 23rd.

Looking ahead:
